

Understanding Covert Persuasion / Hypnotic Influence

How many times in your life have you wished people would listen to what you are saying and act accordingly? It is natural for people to want others to listen to them and be in control of them. You may be wondering if this is even remotely possible. Well yes it is! You can now control and make other people do and think what you want them to by using skills like covert persuasion and hypnotic influence. Both these skills are a means of telepathy, which can be used to manipulate other people's minds to exactly what you want them to do. These exceptional skills can be used anywhere like stores if you happen to be a salesperson. In fact, you can influence your customers using these skills in making them want to buy the stuff you show them, you can persuade your job interviewer to give you the job you are approaching them for or you can get others to do things exactly as you want them to be done. And this is not difficult to learn. With covert persuasion and hypnotic influence, you learn skills that are useful in manipulating other people's thoughts to synchronize with yours. Both these skills are techniques that need to be acquired through intense practice. When you use covert persuasion and hypnotic influence you will find that others listening to your words are simply mesmerized and in a state of trance listening intently to what you have to say. These skills are extremely useful to management trainers who need to keep their audience engrossed and put across the thoughts they are trying to convey easily. These are skills that every trainer or leader cherishes to have and through the practice of simple techniques, anyone can acquire these skills. To acquire these skills of covert persuasion and hypnotic influence one needs to have an extremely calm and focused mind. Only a calm and focused mind helps one to acquire these skills with ease. Covert persuasion and hypnotic influence means that you are in control over others thoughts and can make them do exactly what you would want them to do. Every born leader has these two skills come naturally to them and those who become leaders do so by acquiring these skills through intense training. You will notice that your communication skills are much improved and that you will be able to relay all your thoughts to others as your want them. Covert persuasion and hypnotic influence can be used by anyone like parents, business people, sales persons, life coaches, management trainers and others. Both these techniques are very useful when acquired, as they will make your life much easier. Those who have wrong or evil intentions and are thinking of harming others can also misuse covert persuasion and hypnotic influence. Therefore, both these techniques have to be used wisely so that others are not harmed in anyway when they fall in line with the thoughts that you are conveying to them. Any life skill that is acquired should be put into good use and have to be addressed with a positive approach.

About the Author

A.Thomas Perhacs, is an Expert Author on Covert Persuasion & Hypnotic Influence. He has just released (2) two new books on Hypnosis & Mind Force Secrets. To Claim Your 1 hour audio seminar, report & Video Series go to <http://www.mindforcesecrets.com>

Source: <http://hogom.com>